WORLD'S FAIR VISITORS this week included a group of 'Mississippi Mulets' who took advantage of a Hancock County Senior Citizens Center bus trip to the fair Tuesday. The Gulf Coast visitors to the fair were given badges identifying them as 'Mississippi Mulets.' Among the 'mulets' resting their feet and people-watching while they wait for the return bus ride are, from left, Mabel McAcay of Clermont Harbor, Edith Chevla of Bay St. Louis and Rosine Jushway, Hancock County Senior Citizens Center office manager. Chamber cancels benefit

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, at its Tuesday night meeting, decided to cancel its $10,000 fund-raising benefit, effective immediately.

"We feel that since religious and other non-profit organizations are promoting the same type of fund-raising activity," said Sherlyn Breland, special projects chairman, "it would be in the best interest of the community for the chamber to cancel its fund-raiser. "All monies collected will be refunded, giving the other organizations a better opportunity to sell their tickets," she stated.

DAYS GONE BY—The Amtrak World's Fair 'Gulf Coast Limited' crossing the Bay St. Louis bridge brings memories back to many residents. A sight familiar to the area for many years in Bay St. Louis was the Louisville & Nashville Number Four locomotive crossing the Bay St. Louis bridge. The top postcard photo was taken before the seawall was constructed with the train traveling east, while the bottom photo shows west travel after the seawall. The pier running under the

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
A group of Hancock County residents plan to petition the board of supervisors Monday to pave Firetower Road as soon as possible, according to Mike Hurston.

Hurston and some 20 other Firetower Road residents met last week at the home of Sidney Smith to discuss the status of Firetower Road construction work with Supervisor James Travira.

Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner, who also has constituents on Firetower Road, did not attend last week's meeting.

The group had intended to meet again with Travira tonight, but will instead present a petition at next Monday's board meeting.

Last week Travira told the group that Firetower Road will be paved by the end of the year.

Hurston said yesterday that Travira reiterated that assurance in a telephone conversation later.

"I'd hate to think anyone's trying to bamboozle anybody, but it's hard trying to get dates and to understand what's going on with the funding," Hurston said.

"We just want to go on record—to ask the supervisors to try to expedite the project and fulfill their obligation to get the road paved as soon as possible."

Smith said residents are "tired of eating dust."

"We had a nice little dirt road before," he said.

"Now we have a big dirt road."

"Nobody's spilling for a fight," Hurston said.

"We're just trying to find out what's going on."

James Stevenson, county engineer, said yesterday that he feels much of the concern stems from misunderstanding.

"For the past 12 years," Stevenson said, "the board of supervisors has been able to get advance credits on funding for state aid, road construction and maintenance based on a four-year allotment."

On that basis the supervisors set priorities to: (1) resal 18.3 miles of state aid roads, (2) resurface the Kiln-Fentor-Dellale Road and (3) pave Firetower Road.

"If the advance credit system had continued, we should have been able to do all three jobs this year," he said, adding that he and the supervisors had "in good faith" told Firetower Road residents the road would be paved this year.

The resurfacing received first priority because funds must be expended to maintain state aid roads before new road construction is accomplished, Stevenson explained.

"It's mandatory we keep up roads we have already improved," State Aid Engineer William P. Stevenson agreed yesterday.

According to Stevenson, he sent out a memorandum in February stating that advance credits had been cut to two years because of uncertainties involved with the State Legislature and sales tax collections.

"It was apparent under this regulation we would not be able to get all three jobs completed this year," Stevenson said.

"Apparently it was going to be resurfacing Kiln-Dellale and delaying Firetower."

Stevenson said the supervisors met with District Engineer George Pate and Seals several weeks ago and agreed to continue to maintain Kiln-Dellale Road to Pate's satisfaction if they could 'swap priorities' on Kiln-Dellale and Firetower Roads, moving Firetower Road paving up to second priority.

According to Seals, Stevenson agreed, and also said he would allow an extra year of advance credit, contingent upon the State Legislature not cutting state aid division funds.

"The legislature did not," Seals said, adding that plans for paving have been submitted to the state for review and appraisal.

Stevenson verified he granted an additional year on advance credits, saying the state aid engineer may make such authorization at his discretion.

Stevenson noted that his office currently has about 60 projects in his office to be reviewed and approved.

"If we can get approval soon," Seals said, "at the present time I see no reason for not letting that contract in the near future."

The current Firetower Road construction project—preparation work for paving—will be submitted to the state for inspection and final acceptance as soon as he is assured of permanent grass growth along the roadway, Seals said.

Enforcement agencies again warn businesses on illegal beer sales

By ELLIS CUEVAS
A weekend check by Bay St. Louis Police revealed beer sales to minors are widespread in the city, at both small and large establishments, according to Douglas Williams, chief of police.

Williams stated, "Parents have been calling the police department and requesting that we take steps to purchase beer in the city."

Murray Ladner, Bay Investigator said, "Seven warnings were issued to businesses last weekend during a routine check in which we sent Junior Police Officers to make beer purchases."

One arrest was made during the check, Ladner noted.

"It is illegal to sell beer to persons under age 18 and we are going to enforce that law," Williams emphasized.

Ronald Peterson, Hancock County sheriff, issued a similar warning last week that his department would be using Junior Deputies throughout the county to make sure that beer isn't being sold to minors.

The last time the sheriff's department ran a crack down, 60 percent of establishments checked were in violation, compare to 80 percent the time before, Peterson noted.

Officers also report it is illegal for an adult to purchase beer for a minor or give it to one.

Car hits wires, knocks out power

By DENA BISNETTE
An auto accident resulted in a power outage for Bay St. Louis and Waveland Tuesday night.

According to spokesmen for Mississippi Power Co. and the Hancock County Sheriff's Department, a car ran off Hwy. 90 and hit two guide wires attached to a utility pole.

The wires shorted out transmission lines and caused an outage at the Bayou LaCrosse substation. John Hutchinson of Mississippi Power reported. The substation serves Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

Hutchinson said the outage occurred shortly before 1 a.m. and lasted 47 minutes.

The Mississippi Highway Patrol is still investigating the cause of the accident.

Don Coss, a sheriff's department officer who reported to the accident scene, said the car was driven by Hancock County resident Geneva Smith. The driver was sent to Hancock General Hospital with lacerations and a possible neck injury.

Her vehicle was traveling south on Hwy. 90 when it apparently crossed the north lane of traffic, ran off the left side of the road and hit the wires. It continued to collide with trees and other objects before stopping about 70 feet from where it left the road, the officer reported.

Council takes bids under advisement

By DENA BISNETTE
The Bay St. Louis City Council met Tuesday to discuss its housing rehabilitation project.

The project, funded through the Department of Housing and Urban Development, rehabilitates substantial housing in several parts of Bay St. Louis.

The council took bids on rehabilitation and pest extermination for ten houses in the project area. Bids were also taken on installation of insulation and heating for six of those houses.

All bids were taken under advisement until a later meeting.

In a related matter, Geraldine Lang of the Citizens' Advisory Committee presented the council with a letter requesting that the homes of Albert Robinson and Katie Saucier be declared special cases.

According to Herman Briggs, a rehabilitation specialist involved in the HUD project, both houses are in the project area and need repairs as soon as possible.

"I have been to her (Mrs. Saucier's) house several times in the course of the project and each time conditions have been a little worse. Now her whole kitchen is on the ground," he said.

He recommended that the council approve the request on both houses.

The council approved the request, which means that the rehabilitation of the homes will not be delayed by a bid.

with a petition requesting extension of the project area. The petition was taken under advisement.

In other business, the council accepted a proposal from Ron Murray Consultants for administrative services on a 1984 Community Development Block Grant. The proposal gave a price of $250 for preparation of the grant application. The cost of administrative services will be negotiated after the grant is obtained.

The council also heard Stan Moore's request for information on whether a sewer line can be installed near some property he owns in the annexed area of Bay St. Louis. The council plans to investigate the problem before taking any action.

Other items of business included discussions concerning a drainage problem on Dogwood Drive and the installation of street lights on US-90 from Bay St. Louis to the Waveland city limits. The council approved contacting Mississippi Power for information on installing the lights.

The council met again at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday night.

Q. I get Social Security retirement benefits, but I am planning on moving to another country. Will I lose my benefits?

A. If you are a citizen of the U.S. or certain other countries, your Social Security checks continue no matter how long you stay outside the U.S. But there are certain countries where we are not allowed to send checks. For more information, contact any Social Security office and ask for the free pamphlet, Your Social Security Checks While You Are Outside the U.S.

Q. For several years I have been a representative payee for a friend. I will be moving to another State in a few months and won't be able to continue as the representative payee. What should I do with the unspent money my friend has received?

A. If you will no longer be payee, you generally must turn over to the Social Security Administration all benefits you have saved or invested, including interest and cash on hand. In some cases, however, you may be asked to turn over the funds to the beneficiary or to the new payee.

REAL VIEWS ON REAL ESTATE

LAND MUST HAVE "DUST"
Question: What causes land to have value? Are there specific things that must be present? C.F., Pass Christian.
Answer: Dear C.F.

Real Estate is an economic good which satisfies human wants and needs; thus real estate commands a price. In order for real estate or any economic good to have value, certain elements must be present.

These are: (1) demand, (2) utility, (3) scarcity and (4) transferability.

The first letter of each spells the word "DUST." This makes it easy to remember that in order to have value, real estate must have "DUST."

Demand is a basic economic term which denotes a qualified buyer who is ready, willing and able to make the purchase. If any or all of the other three elements are missing, then no demand exists. Demand is more than just human desire. It is desire plus purchasing power.

Utility refers to usefulness. The more useful a parcel of real estate is, the more a user is likely to be willing to pay for it. Usefulness, by itself, is not enough to create value.

Scarcity is a relative term. To speak of the scarcity of real estate is to refer to the limited supply of certain types of real estate at particular locations.

Transferability is the ability to transfer legal rights to real estate. If legal rights could not be transferred from one person to another, no value could result.

Thus, to have value, land must have "DUST." Remember this.

Skeletal remains identified as Hancock homicide victim

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A New Orleans forensic pathologist indicated that the skeletal remains found in a Lakeshore wooded area Monday evening are those of Laura Jeanne Kelly Thomann, 42, Rt. 7, Box 28C, BaySide Park, Bay St. Louis.

Ronald Peterson, Hancock County sheriff, late Wednesday said, "The forensic pathologist said she had been dead for about three months and had died of an apparent cut throat."

The skeletal remains were found by a motorcyclist from Finland who was seeking a place to camp about 8 p.m. Monday, Peterson said, on a dirt road about one quarter mile from US-90 running off the Lakeshore Road.

The road is known locally as Gas Well Road, Peterson said.

The cyclist returned to the highway and flagged a Waveland Patrolman down, who notified the sheriff's office. Then Delbert Seay, Hancock sheriff's investigator, went to the scene.

The body was found approximately one and a half miles from her residence, Peterson stated.

"We have been able to trace her leaving a local tavern walking towards her home and are continuing our investigation. We have questioned several persons and will question more," Peterson reported.

The Hancock County woman had been reported missing since February 27.

"Her name was entered on the National Crime Information Center as a missing person," Peterson allowed.

"The remains were clothed from the waist up, and underwear and slacks were found several inches away," Peterson said.

"We have questioned several persons and will continue our investigation into the matter," he added.

Portable generators were used to provide light in the wooded area Monday to aid investigators from the sheriff's office, the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol, the Mississippi Crime Lab, Waveland Police Department and Harold Stiglet, Hancock coroner.

On Wednesday morning Seay said, "We are handling the case as a homicide" even before receiving a report from the forensic pathologist.

Seay, who is in charge of the case; Lt. T.P. Naylor, Mississippi Highway Patrol criminal investigator; and Stiglet met members of the New Orleans Coroner's Office Wednesday afternoon for identification and an autopsy report.

FOUR-CAR COLLISION—Wrecker personnel, from left, Jimmy, John and Martin Pernicelli ponder the task of untangling a four-car collision on the Bay St. Louis US-90 automobile bridge early Sunday afternoon. Treated and released from Hancock General Hospital for injuries sustained in the mishap were Robyn Lamelin, 26, and her sister, Rebecca Lamelin, 17, both of Gulfport. Suzie Woods, 40, also of Gulfport, was transferred from HGH to Gulfport Memorial Hospital where she was listed in stable condition. Police said an east-bound car driven by Lisa Logan, 15, of Pass Christian skidded out of control on wet pavement near the draw, jumped the median and collided with the west-bound Woods vehicle which was subsequently struck by west-bound cars driven by Warren Seymour, 18, of Bay St. Louis and the vehicle driven by Robyn Lamelin. Miss Logan was charged with failure to yield right-of-way. (Echo staff photo by Edgar Perez)

Congratulations are in order for the many young men and ladies who are graduating from high schools in the area.

Many will be going to college while others will be joining the work force and some going into the military.

Whatever your choice, we wish you well, and we do hope all will continue their educations.

Opportunities to learn never cease, as we can all learn throughout our lives.

You know, the graduates of this year are the future leaders of tomorrow.

Good luck!

It appears that just about everything, as the old saying goes, that is not 'nailed down' will be stolen.

The latest item we have heard about is the new all-weather American Flag at Hancock General Hospital which was stolen this week.

We do not know the makeup of a person who will go around stealing an American Flag, and can hardly believe anyone would do such.

The flag was apparently removed at night, and we hope that anyone who would have any information would call the sheriff's office.

In case you are an early riser, you still have time for the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Morning Edition at the Rose Cafe on Coleman Avenue.

Winston Lill, community relations manager for the Louisiana World Exposition will be the featured speaker at the event with starts at 7:30 a.m.

We have received many reports about the World's Fair in New Orleans, and the majority of those visiting the big event whom we have spoken to have given us good reports.

We know some 40 senior citizens from Hancock County enjoyed a damp visit to the fair on Tuesday of this week.

From what we have heard, all appeared to have had a good time.

Peter Faucetta of Bay St. Louis is not the only resident for whom the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Eagle which is visiting the World's Fair brings back memories.

Pete Morrill served nine years on the cutter, four as a cadet, four years as a sail master, and his last year in 1964 as skipper.

Morrill, a Boston native, moved to Hancock County in 1970 when the Coast Guard's Data Buoy office moved to NSTL as that group's commander.

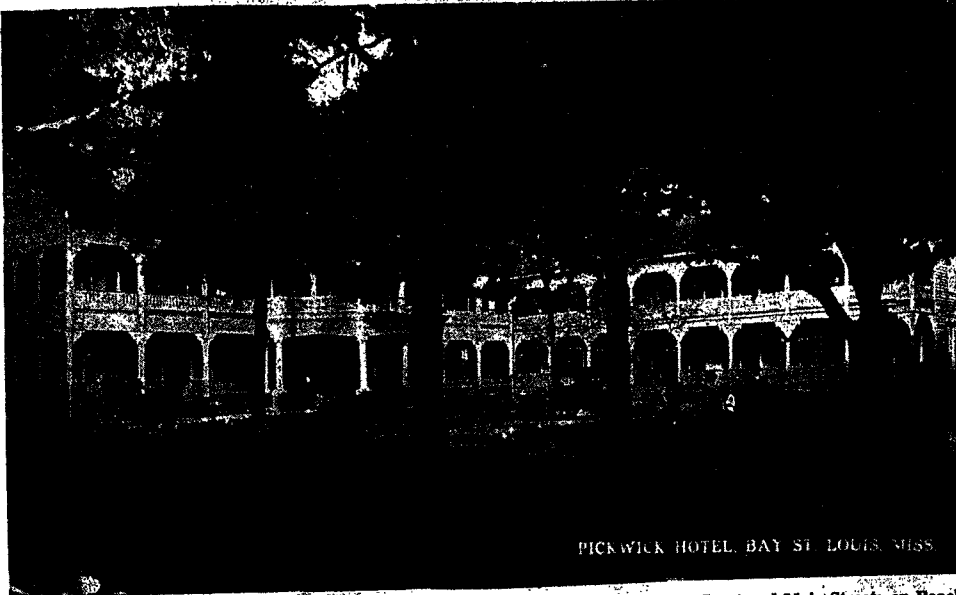

He later retired from the Coast Guard as a captain and has made Hancock County his retirement home.

Morrill, like many others who have come here with the military and test site, likes the style of living we enjoy in Hancock County.

A GREAT BAY ST. LOUIS HOTEL—One of the most popular Bay St. Louis Hotels in the early 1900's was the Pickwick. This postcard photo was taken circa 1917 of the hotel which was destroyed by fire in the 1920's, according to Mrs. O.W. Delph. The fire was early in the morning and Mrs. Delph, a student at St. Joseph's Academy at the time, was late for school, as she recalled the students watched the remains of the fire on the way to school. The hotel was 'L' shaped with a circular drive and was located between Court and Main Streets on Beach Boulevard. It was used by families and salesmen who were known as 'drummers' who would come to town on commuter trains. "Then everything was within walking distance in Bay St. Louis," Mrs. Delph remembers. IN CONGRESS By Cong. Trent Lott

Water Projects Which Will Float Economic Growth

The House of Representatives this week is considering legislation which will provide funding for two water resource projects vital to the continued economic growth of the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

One is the deepening of the Gulfport Harbor to accommodate lucrative shipping interests now unable to access our port. The other project would continue work to implement the controlled diversion of the Mississippi River's fresh water into the salt waters of the Mississippi Sound. The impact of this diversion would be the revitalization of the Coast's seafood industry.

Too often in the Congress, water projects compete "pork barrel" legislation whose intent and necessity is called into question. And there is no doubt that some unnecessary "pork" exists in many so-called water project bills.

But when we embark on the orderly development of our water resources for economic benefit—whether to protect homes from annual flooding or to enable ports to reach their potential—that's not pork.

No one is more concerned than I am over the federal deficit, nor more committed to reducing federal spending in dealing with this crisis.

But it is equally important that we not ignore the effect of an investment now in the relatively small Port of Gulfport which will reap new jobs for Coast residents, the location of new businesses which can be served by the expanded port and increased federal income through additional customs duties and tonnage taxes.

Unless you're a fisherman, you might be wondering why money should be spent in controlling the introduction of fresh water into the salt waters of the Gulf.

The Coast's oyster production has suffered over the past year, particularly, from the imbalance of fresh and salt water as a result of flooding and the northward intrusion of the Gulf of Mexico.

Successful oyster production requires a delicate balance of salt and fresh waters, and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is convinced that controlling the salinity content in the Gulf will do more toward improving and expanding our seafood industry than anything else we can do.

And you don't have to be a fisherman to know that the seafood industry in Mississippi is not "pork!"

Senator Thad Cochran SPECIAL REPORT:

Agriculture, Public Works
Senator Thad Cochran says he will continue working in Washington on behalf of agriculture and public work projects in Mississippi.

"I will work hard to help form policy and pass legislation benefiting agriculture and the American people, and to insure that sound public works projects essential to Mississippi receive the funding necessary for them to become a reality," he recently told a group in Carrollton.

Cochran noted his positions on the Senate Appropriations and Agriculture committees, and his chairmanships of two major subcommittees, saying "they are positions of stewardship the people of Mississippi have made possible for me to exercise on their behalf."

Cochran ranks third in seniority behind the chairman of the 17-member Agriculture Committee, and is sixth in seniority behind the chairman of the 29-member Appropriations Committee on the majority side.

The senator, 46, is also chairman of the appropriations subcommittee on agriculture and rural development and the agriculture panel on production, marketing and price stabilization.

He told a group at a barbecue around the courthouse square that "sound farm programs, flood control, navigation and transportation projects are vital to the economic interests and well-being of the people of Mississippi."

The senator is a member of the Appropriations subcommittee on transportation, energy, and water development, the interior, in addition to his chairmanship of Agriculture and rural development.

Recently he was in Jackson for Senate appropriations subcommittee hearings on health and human resources programs, including those in community health centers and home health care.

Later in the day he traveled to Natchez, Miss., to meet with the Mississippi Delta Development Council, a regional organization that promotes economic development in the Delta region.

WHAT IS STROKE?

A stroke occurs when the blood supply to part of the brain is halted by either a clot, a ruptured vessel or pressure on the blood vessel by a tumor. Strokes are more likely to occur when arteries leading to the brain have been previously damaged by a disease process called hardening of the arteries. Warning signs of a possible stroke may include temporary loss of speech, loss of vision or double vision, unexplained headaches or dizziness. Regular medical checkups are the best protection against strokes. Contact your local American Heart Association for more information.

TICK TALK

Q: Ticks are pesky, but are they really much of a danger?

Summertime is tick time in Mississippi as well as in most of the Southeast. These uninvited guests at our picnics and hitchhikers on our sojourns in the woods are usually just pests, but may cause serious illness.

Ticks come in three sizes, corresponding to their life cycle: pin-point larvae, medium-size nymphs or immature ticks, and larger adults. All bite, and all sizes can transmit the agent causing Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever, or, more accurately, Tick-Borne Typhus. The term Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever is a misnomer since the disease is most common on the East Coast and in the South.

Spotted Fever is endemic in Mississippi, which means that there is always a reservoir of the infection in ticks and in wildlife which can be spread to man by the bite of an infected tick.

Is it a serious disease?
While Spotted Fever is a severe infection with a high mortality rate untreated, it's easily prevented by removing ticks promptly and easily treated if diagnosed early. Anyone having flu-like symptoms with headache, chills, fever and a rash several days after a tick bite should seek medical attention promptly.

This especially applies to children since 70 percent of cases occur in persons under 20 years of age. Parents of young children especially are advised to be alert for ticks and to remove them promptly.

Children with long hair should be inspected above the hairline on the neck, since this is a place where ticks may attach and remain unseen for long periods of time.

Tick paralysis is another infrequent complication of ticks bites and is apparently caused by a toxic component in the saliva of the tick. Affecting mainly young children, it resolves immediately upon removal of the tick. The tick is usually attached on the neck under the hair.

How can I prevent tick bites?
Prevention of harmful effects from tick bites is easy since ticks are usually slow to attach and don't spread disease for at least two hours after attachment. Use insect repellent to prevent tick attachment. The stronger ones containing higher concentration of active ingredients are more effective and last longer.

Protective outer clothing that is tightly fastened at the waist and ankles also helps.

What is the best way to remove ticks?
Ticks should be removed immediately when found. Be careful to remove the head and mouth parts also.

This is best done by applying a volatile solvent like nail polish remover or rubbing alcohol to the tick's body, waiting for him to loosen his attachment, then removing with tweezers.

Ticks removed from either humans or dogs should not be handled or crushed with the fingers, since the agent causing Spotted Fever is highly infectious.

Some cases are caused in this way. Finally, the family dog may also be affected by ticks and should be deticked by dipping or spraying from time to time.

AICR approves grants for cancer research

Research grants totaling $609,382 were approved recently by the American Institute for Cancer Research (AICR), a non-profit organization founded in 1981 to promote research and public education on diet, nutrition and cancer.

The current series of nine grants bring AICR's total research commitment to more than $1.6 million in its 18 months of operation.

At the University of Western Ontario, AICR will sponsor research by Kenneth K. Carroll, Ph.D., on the relationship of dietary fat and breast cancer.

The two-year project, titled 'Dietary Modification of Mammary Carcinogenesis,' will examine both the amount of fat and the type of fat (saturated or polyunsaturated) in the diet of rats.

E.J. Hawrylewicz, Ph.D., at Mercy Hospital and Medical Center in Chicago, will conduct a novel study to determine whether high-protein diets influence mammary gland development and the incidence of breast cancer.

His one-year project is called 'Dietary Protein, Mammary Gland Differentiation, DNA Labeling and Tumor Incidence.'

A two-year project, 'Vitamin Deficiency-Induced Cachexia in Cancer,' will explore the cause of cachexia (malnutrition) in cancer patients. The research will be conducted by Carl Bernofsky, Ph.D., at Tulane University School of Medicine.

Dithiolones, dietary components found in cabbage and other cruciferous vegetables, act to modify cancer caused by the potent carcinogenic mold aflatoxin. In a one-year project at Johns Hopkins University Thomas W. Kensler, Ph.D., will investigate the 'Mechanisms of Anticarcinogenesis by Dietary Dithiolones.'

At the Southwest Foundation for Biomedical Research in San Antonio Milton V. Marshall, Ph.D., will conduct research to find how selenium works to inhibit the growth of cancerous breast and liver tumors in a project called 'Anticarcinogenic Activity of Selenium.'

AICR approved a grant to the University of Colorado to continue the efforts of Richard G. Ham, Ph.D., to develop a system for studying cancer development in normal human breast cells.

In a study in the People's Republic of China, Larry C. Clark, Ph.D., from New York State College of Veterinary Medicine at Cornell University will monitor cancer deaths in two regions of China—one in which the population will receive selenium fortification and another which will receive none.

This two-year program, called 'Prevention of Cancer with Selenium in the PRC,' also involves a nutritional survey in the two regions to learn about the diet and nutritional status of the population.

Another study of selenium will be undertaken at the University of Texas System

Cancer Center. In this two-year program, both selenium and beta-carotene will be examined for their effects on chemically-induced liver cancer in rats.

The project, conducted by Ronald A. Faria, Ph.D., is called 'Effects of Selenium and Beta-Carotene on Chemically-Altered Cells During Hepatocarcinogenesis.'

At Montefiore Hospital in New York Jozef Mendecki, Ph.D., will research the potential benefits of vitamin A administered in large but not toxic amounts as a dietary supplement for laboratory animals with cancer.

The two-year study, called 'Supplemental Vitamin A Diet as an Adjunct to Radiotherapy of Cancer,' will also assess the interaction between vitamin A and radiotherapy of malignant tumors.

New federal legislation helps veterans, employers

Veterans of the Korean and Vietnam wars in Mississippi could find their war duty a distinct advantage in finding a job as a result of federal legislation passed last October.

Called the Emergency Veterans Job Training Act (Public Law 98-77), the bill features direct wage reimbursement for participating employers.

So far, 124 Mississippi employers have committed 301 training positions under the new law and have hired 52 jobless veterans.

In addition to authorizing job placement assistance for Korean and Vietnam veterans, the legislation also authorizes the federal government to reimburse employers who train and hire the veterans with 50 percent of the veteran's starting salary.

"That means employers who participate in the program could receive up to $10,000," said Charles Wickes, director at the Jackson VA Regional Office.

To qualify, veterans must have served 180 days or more on active duty and part of their service must have been during the Korean or Vietnam wars.

Because those wars were not officially declared wars, the federal government has determined that Korean veterans must have served at some point between June 27, 1950 and Jan. 31, 1955 to be eligible under the program. Vietnam veterans must have served at some time between Aug. 5, 1964 and May 7, 1975.

Veterans also must be currently unemployed or out of work for at least 15 of the last 20 weeks prior to applying for placement assistance under the program.

Maximum training period for the veteran is nine months, although disabled veterans or those with serious employment handicaps may be trained for as long as 15 months.

"Disability does not necessarily mean inability," Wickes said, adding "a disabled veteran could be someone who had suffered a heart attack 10 years ago or someone who had diabetes."

Employers who qualify under the program must have jobs available in a growth industry or one which requires new technological skills, or they must have a situation where there is a low number of trained workers for a certain position. Wickes noted that some employers might find these restrictions misleading. "That sounds more limiting than it actually is," Wickes said.

"In reality, you can look at it as a fast-food restaurant like a McDonald's. That's a 'growth industry.'"

Those veterans or employers who are interested in the program should contact a state veterans' employment representative or call the VA Regional Office's toll-free number 1-800-682-5270.

CHOREOGRAPHER GEORGE BALANCHINE is paid tribute in a 'Dance in America' special to be presented on "Great Performances" at 8 p.m. Monday, May 28, on Mississippi Educational Television. Tentatively titled 'Balanchine,' the program tells the story of Balanchine's career from his beginnings in Imperial Russia, where he was trained as both a dancer and a musician, to the culmination of his career in the empire he built at the New York City Ballet. Balanchine steered the course of classical ballet in the 20th century, according to critics, and is ranked alongside Stravinsky and Picasso as one of the leading innovators of the modern era. When he died last year, he left behind a repertoire that is considered one of the greatest artistic achievements of this century.

New chain for saws reduces risk

Consumers with older model chain saws now have a new safety tool in the form of the low-kick chain to reduce the risks of injury from chain saw kickback.

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, kickback is the sudden and potentially violent rearward and/or upward movement of the chain saw often caused by interference with the chain moving around the tip of the guide bar. This sudden and unexpected kickback can propel the moving chain saw into contact with the operator, often with serious results.

Government safety experts say that recent improvements in the design of saw chains have brought about the "Low kickback consumer replacement chain" which is capable of reducing chain saw kickback. CPSC said owners of older model chain saws should take their saw to a dealer and have it equipped with one of the new low kickback consumer replacement chains now on the market; the cost is comparable to that of conventional chains.

CPSC said some 120,000 persons need medical attention each year for chain saw related injuries; of these, some 60,000 receive emergency treatment at the hospital. Chain saw kickback was associated with one in five of these injuries.

The government safety agency offered the following tips to improve operator safety and to reduce the chances of an accident while using the chain saw:

—Always operate the saw with both hands gripping the handles.

—Avoid situations that could cause chain saw kickback. Do not allow the tip of the guide bar to touch any object during chain saw operation.

—Refer to the owner's manual for the proper grip of the saw; check for the proper placement of the thumb and fingers on the forward handle.

—Start all cuts at full throttle and cut at top speed until the cut is complete. Keep the body clear of the natural path the saw will take after completion of the cut.

—If necessary, adjust the throttle speed so that the chain does not move when the engine idles. If efforts at adjustment do not stop the chain from moving, the saw should not be used until it has been repaired by the dealer.

—Carry the saw carefully; the engine stopped...guide bar and chain pointed behind you...the muffler away from the body.

—Keep the safety features (chain brake, tip guard, etc.) operational at all times. Keep the chain sharpened and under proper tension.

—Refer to the owner's manual for recommendations covering the use, maintenance and storage of the chain saw.

Consumers wanting detailed information from the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission on chain saw safety should write Saws, Washington, D.C., 20207.

The 1983 documentary follows Gibbs' manager, her promoters, her music publisher and her record company as they methodically choose, record and promote her next single, doing everything they can to make it a hit. Gibbs' manager, Ed Penney, talks about how he views Terri's potential in the music market. "She is a great singer," he says. "Unfortunately, radio stations categorize singers." The problem for Penney is to find a new song that will take her beyond the country category and attract new listeners without losing the old.

Flooding in Mississippi and its effects on the state's agriculture industry are the focus of a "Farmweek" report to air at 7:30 p.m. Monday May 28, on Mississippi ETV.

Planting has already been delayed by this year's heavy spring rains, but resulting floods could deal a more devastating blow to the state's farmers.

Weather forecasts, farm news, market reports, advice for producers of various commodities and a calendar of upcoming agricultural events in Mississippi are included on each edition of "Farmweek." The series is co-produced by Mississippi ETV and the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

The unaided human eye, in optimum circumstances, can distinguish 10,000,000 different color surfaces.

Polymer study tied to tumor treatment

According to a polymer scientist at the University of Southern Mississippi, agricultural and medical applications of polymers may lead to future breakthroughs in pesticide applications and the treatment of viruses and cancerous agents in the body.

Dr. Charles McCormick recently chaired meetings at a conference sponsored by the New York Academy of Sciences and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The conferences brought national and international scientists together to discuss current and future research.

McCormick's research at USM has dealt in part with the development of herbicides which are attached to specific polymer molecules. The molecules, over time, release the weed and insect control agents into the treated area.

"This technique can limit the amount of chemicals required for a specific crop," he said.

"The polymers are incorporated into the soil and will not wash away or evaporate, which is a problem in present application techniques."

McCormick said although the polymer application of chemicals is environmentally safer and perhaps in the long run more economical than conventional methods, they probably will not be on the market for another decade.

Medical research on the use of polymers conducted at the University of Florida has reached promising conclusions in the treatment of tumors.

"Very little is known at this time about how it actually works," McCormick said. "The polymer apparently interacts with tumor cells and somehow prevents tumor formation."

Laboratory mice with tumors were injected with polymers bearing anti-tumor drugs. The drugs acted as antibodies, traveling through the bloodstream and attacking the tumorous growth.

"On the side of the tumor cell, there are what we call 'receptor sites,'" McCormick said. "These resemble sugar molecules and are commonly found on the surface of tumorous cells."

"The polymer takes its attached chemical to the cell where both react with the receptor site and subsequently retards the growth of the tumor."

"There are a lot of new advances in the use of polymers," he said. "The entire area of biologically active polymers is really catching on."

McCormick has conducted extensive research on polymer applications in agriculture and on methods of using polymers in recovering oil from existing inactive wells.

Memorial Day Opening slated

Unique design featured in Clermont Harbor's first hotel in 40 years

PADLEWHEEL MOTEL - Clermont Harbor's first motel in 40 years is designed to resemble a steamship.

By DENA BISNETTE

Clermont Harbor now has its first hotel in more than 40 years.

The Paddlewheel Motel was recently completed and will be open for the Memorial Day Weekend, according to owner Bruce McMahon.

The motel is located next to the Paddlewheel Restaurant a half-mile west of Bucañer State Park on Beach Road.

Like the restaurant, which McMahon opened about four years ago, the motel faces the Gulf and resembles a steamship.

Balconies on the dark red structure are arranged to look like decks and rooms have portholes instead of windows. Smokestacks decorate the upper floors.

"We got the design from the restaurant and from books on paddlewheel ships," McMahon explained.

"We have had a lot of people at the restaurant, mostly summer people, asking where they could find a motel on the beach. Everybody wanted to stay in a beachfront motel, so we decided to put one up," he added.

People who want a water view will find it from both ends of the new motel. The front rooms of the three-floor building face the sea while the back rooms face the one-time port of Clermont Harbor, which is now a marsh lake fed by a canal.

McMahon said his motel is built on the site of the Harbor Inn, originally constructed in 1914, and almost destroyed by a hurricane the following year.

The Harbor Inn reopened in 1926 and operated until a fire leveled it in 1949, but there have been no hotels in Clermont Harbor since.

Unlike the Harbor Inn, the Paddlewheel Motel is constructed according to modern building specifications written after several severe hurricanes. It is built on pilings to withstand high waters if a storm strikes.

Only nine rooms of the motel, eight on the first floor and one on the top floor, are currently ready for use. Nine more rooms are partially complete and will probably be opened later this summer, the owner said.

McMahon is trying his old business to his new one by using the restaurant as the motel office. Like many area businessmen, he expects his best trade during the summer.

According to motel manager, Rose Marake, some reservations for the summer have already been made, including a few that had to be changed due to construction delays.

Pass Fleet Blessing is Sunday

The eighth annual Blessing of the Fleet sponsored by the Pass Christian Area Chamber of Commerce will be Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Pass Small Craft Harbor.

More than a dozen trophies will be awarded at ceremonies following a parade of boats, according to Russell Ringer, chairman of the event.

A parade of all participating boats will begin at 2 p.m. with the boats leaving the harbor and circling outside where they will be judged.

Monsignor James McGough of St. Paul's Catholic Church and the Reverend Travers Koerner of Trinity Episcopal Church will bless the boats on their return into the harbor.

Following the parade of boats, the queen of the fleet will be introduced along with her court.

King fisherman of 1984 will also be named. District Three Supervisor Billy McDonald will serve as master of ceremonies.

Following the official ceremonies, refreshments will be sold and dancing will follow to the music of the Mississippi Pride.

The public is invited to attend.

Sailplane record set from Stennis

By DENA BISNETTE

In a contest sponsored last weekend by Bay Aviation, a Mobile, Ala., sailplane pilot set a new Mississippi record by flying 320 miles in five and a half hours.

According to Andy Ewing of Bay Aviation, Fred Schmid of Mobile launched his engineless plane from Stennis Airport near Waveland shortly after 10:30 a.m. Saturday. He flew north to Olive Branch, near the Tennessee border, with his wife Suzanne following him in a ground vehicle towing his sailplane trailer.

Ewing said Schmid never got over 5000 feet off the ground but averaged a "pretty impressive" speed of more than 66 mph.

"The flight was actually a little less than five and half hours," Ewing stated, "because he had to wait for his wife when he got there."

Schmid and his plane reportedly ran into trouble only once during the flight, when he lost altitude near Jackson and fell to 2,000 feet. He was able to avoid landing early because air currents improved and lifted the plane higher.

Schmid will receive a $500 prize provided by Bay Aviation for his efforts, Ewing said. The check will be presented Saturday at the opening of Bay Aviation's annual sailplane race.

The race, a three-day event scheduled for Saturday, Sunday and Monday, is expected to include 10 to 12 pilots.

Launch time for the race will be between 10 a.m. and noon each day, with pilots expected back at Stennis airport at about 4 p.m. The race will be kicked off with a pilot's meeting at 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

BEACHFRONT FESTIVAL EXHIBIT—Manier's Restaurant, Piazza's Barber Shop and Beach Drugs were a few of the many businesses that lined the waterfront on Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis before Hurricane Camille rearranged the city in 1969. Festival chairman Pat Murphy Jr. reports several organizations and many individuals have contributed pictures of early Bay St. Louis to be displayed at the annual event.

Coast bodybuilding championships set

Some 60 contestants, including several from the Bay St. Louis area, are expected to participate in the fourth annual Men's and Women's Gulf Coast Body Building Championships Saturday, June 2 at the newly-refurbished Saenger Theater in Biloxi.

Promoter Ron Meyers said a mixed couples category will be featured in the event for the first time.

WLOX-TV Sportscenter A. J. Giardina will serve as master of ceremonies at the evening show which is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m., Meyers reports.

Pre-judging at the theater will begin at 10 a.m.

Advanced sale tickets for both events are available at Surf And Sport in Edgewater Mall and at Pro Gym in Biloxi.

Tickets for both events will be available at the door.

Meyers said based on attendance at the first three Gulf Coast championships, he is expecting a near sell-out for this fourth annual program.

Referee dispute may affect Coast school football

The Gulf Coast Officials Association (GCOA) has withdrawn from the Mississippi High School Activities Association (MHSAA) last year, Biloxi newspapers reported Wednesday.

The GCOA provides referees and officials for high school baseball, football and basketball games played on the Mississippi Coast. The MHSAA is the governing body of high school sports in Mississippi.

Currently the two groups are trying to reconcile their problems and differences, which threaten to disrupt or jeopardize high school sports on the Coast during the 1984-85 season, The Sun report stated.

"The local officials association has withdrawn from the MHSAA," confirmed Donald Caldwell, member of the District VIII executive committee. "They had some grievances, I believe. We are trying to work with them and get them back into the MHSAA."

The withdrawal of the GCOA affects competition in the southern part of District VIII.

The northern part of District VIII uses officials from the Hattiesburg association.

"Some [officials] plan not to re-register with the association," said Dr. Woodrow L. Marsh, executive secretary and director of activities of the MHSAA on Tuesday. "We cannot use any officials with the association who do not re-register. Each year we lose some officials and gain some officials. Presently we are in the process of asking officials to re-register early so we can see what our manpower needs are."

The Gulf Coast Officials Association submitted a proposal to the MHSAA last year that would have, among other things, set up a new state governing body for referees and determined game officiating fees. It also would have established policies, guidelines and steps of disciplinary action for athletic matters concerning schools, coaches and officials. That proposal was turned down by the MHSAA.

"They asked for representation on the executive committee," noted Dr. Marsh. "They also wanted to set fees [that] schools will pay a number of things like that."

"One of the things this has shown me is the communications have been very poor," continued Marsh. "Not only on the part of the Gulf Coast, but the state. I hope to open up lines of communication."

According to the MHSAA handbook, all officials must register with the MHSAA. Also, football, basketball and baseball officials are required by the handbook to join the local officials' association that supplies officials to that respective area.

"We met with the assigning secretaries [of the officials association] and talked with them at length," added Dr. Marsh. "We are trying to work with them. We want to work with these fellows."

The executive committee of the Gulf Coast Officials Association, the District VIII executive committee and Dr. Marsh are scheduled to meet Monday to try and resolve the impasse.

Bay trio remains in contention at Olympic Trials

The Bay Waveband Yacht Club's Soling class sailing trio competing for a berth on the U.S. Olympic Team in Los Angeles, Calif., this week is in fifth place at the completion of Tuesday's race.

The trio, with Dennis Stiefel at the helm and Rod Stiefel and Randy Santa Cruz as crew, was slated to launch into the eighth of the trials' ten races about 1:30 p.m. (PDT) Wednesday.

"We feel like we just may be in the best position at this point," Rod Stiefel said Wednesday morning.

The leaders are going to be more concerned with trying to knock one another down in the last three races, while we can concentrate on winning," he explained.

Stiefel said their fifth place position is based on their best five of the seven races already completed.

"We are 16 points behind the leader," Robbie Haines of California, Stiefel added.

ALUMINUM WASTE Despite the growing popularity of recycling, many "countries" internationally in "The Spirit of Bay St. Louis," the group has finished second, sixth, eighth, first, tenth, sixth and 13th in the seven races completed through Tuesday.

The trials, winner of which will represent the U.S. in the 1984 Summer Olympic Games in yachting's Soling class, will conclude with the tenth race of the series Friday.

National Wildlife magazine reports that only about one percent of all paper, aluminum and steel is recycled.

BASKETBALL
Registration is under way now for the 11th annual basketball camp at Mississippi University for Women.

The resident camp is for girls in the seventh grade through high school. The day camp, which will run from 8:45-11:45 a.m., is open to girls in the fourth through sixth grades. Camp dates are June 3-8.

"The purpose of our camp is to present the very best instruction possible on ball handling, offensive and defensive techniques and game strategy," Johnson said. The camp, she continued, is also designed "to inspire campers and improve their interest in the great sport of basketball."

Assisting Johnson will be Rita Higginbotham, assistant basketball coach at MUW, and Kathy Moffett, basketball coach at Seton Academy in New Orleans, La. Members of the "W" basketball team will also assist.

The camp will be held in the Emma Ody Pohl Physical Education-Assembly Building. The new building includes three basketball courts, a swimming pool, classrooms, racquetball courts and other physical education facilities.

Great Fish Stories

Latest Lures Whet Fish's Appetite

When man first baited a hook, more than 20,000 years ago, he threw in his line on a never-ending quest for a better, easier way to catch fish.

The first "fly," "spoon" and "plug" lures were developed through trial and error. However, modern scientific research on the feeding habits of fish has taken over in recent years, spawning the development of such things as paint-on artificial scents, lures with built-in scents and, most recently, a lure that looks, smells and tastes like real fish because it is actually made from real fish.

The bass pictured at right can't wait to get his large mouth around what he thinks is a live minnow.

It's really a new lure, called the Chum'n Minnow, the first to be made of a new material called Flavorol which, in turn, is made from real fish. It was tested extensively by Bass Buster Lures and reformulated many times before the right combination of ingredients was found.

In side-by-side tests, fishermen caught as many fish on Flavorol as on live minnows. Since the scent and taste are properties of the material itself, they won't wash off or wear off.

"A good scent can entice fish into feeding," said pro angler Bill Ward. "If one fish in the school bites, it can sometimes start a feeding frenzy. But fish actually try to eat this new lure. They hold it in their mouth and other fish go crazy. Sometimes other fish even try to steal it from the fish's mouth."

The Ancient Lure of the Lures

The new scented and "taste-ful" lures represent a state of the art in artificial lures that took thousands of years to evolve. Archaeologists think the ancestor to the modern "spoon" lure might date back to 200 B.C. Fly fishing dates back as far as 300 A.D., when Macedonian fishermen developed the original Red Hackle, ancestor to the still popular "Gray Hackle Peacock" fly.

Many of today's most popular fly designs were first published by Dame Juliana Berners. Prior to the 18th century, fishermen fished to feed the sisterhood on days the Catholics weren't allowed to eat meat.

Julio T. Buel patented and began production of the first American spoon lure in 1848, after watching a large fish dart after a tablespoon he'd dropped overboard.

Science Leads to Scents

When scientists began to study how fish detect food and their reactions to certain sights, sounds and smells, the development of artificial lures became less haphazard.

It was then that fishermen began to learn the value of a scent. Anise oil and natural bait oils became popular artificial scents to be brushed or sprayed onto lures.

The Chum'n Minnow is the closest lure yet to live bait. It has a scent and taste that fish recognize as food, but can be stored in a tackle box and used over and over.

Does this mean that man has found the ultimate artificial lure?

Fishermen have come a long way since the stone fish hook, but it will be a long time before modern methods take the sport out of fishing. Until then, the search for the ultimate lure will continue to thrive.

RSVP VOLUNTEERS from Hancock County, honored recently at the seventh annual Volunteer Recognition Voluntary Action Fair in Jackson.

RSVP volunteers honored at Jackson

Josephine Hopkins, RSVP volunteer who works at the Senior Citizens Center in Bay St. Louis recently received a Distinguished Service Award at the 7th annual Volunteer Recognition Voluntary Action Fair in Jackson.

Mrs. Hopkins, who was presented this special award by the Governor for her devoted service in the field of aging, starts each working day Monday through Friday at 8 a.m. making coffee, serving fruit juice and snacks and helping in the nutrition department until approximately 3 p.m.

Another nominee who received special recognition in Jackson was James Lagasse Jr., president of the Waveland Civic Association.

Lagasse has served as president of that organization for seven years, and prior to that helped in many ways, especially after Hurricane Camille.

Lagasse organized the annual Muscular Dystrophy

Telethon collection in Waveland and helps with the St. Patrick's Day Parade and the Triton Parade.

Nominee Reginald Robinson received a special award for his contribution to the community by helping the less fortunate. His appointment to the school board in Bay St. Louis allows him to help the children in the community. He also served on the board of directors for the CETA program and has devoted many hours to transporting people to doctors, shopping, etc.

C.J. Dumestre was nominated for his efforts on behalf of the animal shelter in Waveland searching for a site, raising funds and keeping the Hancock County Humane Society running smoothly. Dumestre has also devoted time to helping the civil defense director prepare for disasters in this area.

The RSVP program reports that 310 volunteers are currently contributing their services to Hancock County.

PRC players, coach named to all-star team

The Pearl River College Wildcat baseball team completed its season with a 35-19 record.

Five Wildcat players have been named as all-stars and will participate in the second annual all-star game June 3 at Meridian Junior College.

Travis Bourgeois, who led the Wildcats in hitting with a .398 average, was named as an infielder along with Jim Murphy, who finished the season with a .363 average and led the team with nine home runs. Murphy will start at third base rather than his customary first base position, while Bourgeois will see some designated hitter and infield work.

Kelly "whitey" Jones, who hit just under the .300 mark for the season, was named as one of two catchers along with Co-Lin's Paul Henning. Jones hit four homers and drove in 25 runs in his final season as a Wildcat.

Richard "Bug" Ellis was named to the outfield. Ellis hit .395 on the season and was tied with Murphy for team honors with nine home runs. Ellis also led the Wildcats in runs batted in with 39 and was second to Murphy in total bases with 104.

Tracey Stiglets was the only Wildcat to make the all-star team as a pitcher. Stiglets had a 4-1 record for the Wildcats, striking out 41 batters in 43 innings.

Wildcat Coach Ned Eades, along with Utica Coach George McQuintan, was named coach for the all-star team. In his three years at Pearl River, Eades has won 95 games and lost only 42.

"The all-star game is a good opportunity for guys to be seen one more time by scouts," said Eades. "The purpose is to promote Mississippi baseball. Last year some players were signed right after the game. It's a big plus for players like Bourgeois and Stiglets who don't have any firm offers yet. They will both be mentally and physically ready for the game. They are all excited."

Rounding out the all-star team are infielders Gary Long and Charlie Lyons of Gulf Coast, Mike Murrell of Utica and Jeff Fuller of Jones. In the outfield David Hooper of Jones was named with Barry Willard and Richard Byrd of Gulf Coast. Other pitchers named in addition to Stiglets included Greg Hibbard and Marshall Hill of Gulf Coast, Blaine Butler and Kerry Hill of Jones and Nick Wilson of Utica.

Two Wildcats were also named to the All-State South squad and one to the All-Region team. Murphy was named to both squads, while "Bug" Ellis was honored with a South squad spot.

Eades and William Carey College baseball captain John Stephenson will hold the second annual baseball camp at Friendship Park, Picayune, May 28. The cost is $30 and kids from the age of eight to 12 will be eligible. Registration will be held at Friendship Park May 27 between 2-4 p.m. Class will be from 9 a.m. to noon ending June 1.

Eades and Stephenson will also hold their first baseball camp at Pearl River College in Poplarville May 28 through June 1. Kids from the age of 8 to 12 years are eligible. Registration will be held at the basketball coliseum on Sunday, May 27 from 2 to 4 p.m.

ETV Brief

MY DINNER WITH ANDRE Louis Malle's critically acclaimed film "My Dinner with Andre" makes its public television debut at 9 p.m. Wednesday, May 30 on Mississippi Educational Television.

The plot for "My Dinner with Andre," disarmingly simple, chronicles an encounter between two friends who have not seen each other for a long time and meet for dinner in a restaurant in New York City.

Actor Wallace Shawn and theatre director Andre Gregory portray themselves in the film. Andre is an intense, highly experimental theater director and playwright in search of life's meanings. His friend Wally is a struggling actor and playwright living in New York who is more preoccupied with the search for his next meal than with uncovering any cosmic insights.

When "My Dinner with Andre" premieres on public television, it will actually be returning to its beginnings. PBS was first to provide funds to Gregory and Shawn for development of their "crazy idea"—a film consisting solely of the two of them talking in a restaurant.

ETV Brief

NOVA
Medical advances in facial reconstructive surgery are examined in a rebroadcast of "Nova" at 8 p.m. Tuesday, May 29 on Mississippi ETV.

First seen last November, "A Normal Face: The Wonders of Plastic Surgery" takes up the story in 1915 when Varastad Kazanjian, a Boston dentist, accompanied a team of Harvard doctors, dentists and nurses to the World War I battlefield hospitals of France to aid the over-burdened British medics.

Combining his dental skills with an ingenious use of skin and soft tissue, Kazanjian soon became known as the "Miracle Man of the Western Front," reconstructing the broken faces of English soldiers.

"Nova" travels to Paris to meet the modern Kazanjian surgeon, Dr. Paul Tessier, who has reconstructed facial surgery around the eye sockets, previously considered too dangerous to attempt.

Follows tonight, Tuesday, May 29, 8 p.m. on Mississippi ETV.

ETV Brief

STREET GANGS

"Frontline" takes a look at street gangs in American and the serious threat they pose to citizens in most major American cities.

"Warnings from Gangland" can be seen at 9 p.m. Friday, May 25 on Mississippi Educational Television.

Nearly half the land space in Los Angeles County has been staked out as "turf" by 420 street gangs. Police officials say that in the past three years nearly 1,000 people have been killed in gang violence.

"Frontline" focuses on the battle between the family of James Hawkins, a 72-year-old Watts grocer, and the gang members who live in the Nickerson Gardens housing project across the street from his small store.

"I've lived here 45 years, and the only way they are going to get me to leave is in a pine box," he says.

Summer courses, workshops listed

Independent Study
More than 65 off-campus credit independent study courses for high school students are being offered this summer through the University of Southern Mississippi's Division of Continuing Education.

Any student who has completed the eighth grade or is at least 18 years of age may enroll in a high school Independent Study course. Individuals may enroll at any time during the year, although summer vacation is considered the ideal time to begin such courses.

Independent Study courses may be taken to meet high school graduation requirements or to prepare for a GED (General Education Development) test.

The university also offers university courses for high school seniors who wish to enrich and accelerate their education. As with students registering for high school courses, students who wish to enroll for university courses may find the summer vacation the ideal time.

Eligibility for the university program is based upon the student's completion of his/her junior year and he/she must rank in the upper one-third of the class.

Courses at the high school level include those from Business, English, Home Economics, the Languages, Mathematics, Sciences and the Social Sciences.

Additional information such as completed course descriptions, titles, costs, and books may be obtained by writing the Department of Independent Study, University of Southern Mississippi, Southern Station Box 5066, Hattiesburg, MS 39406-5066; or by calling (601) 266-4206.

JOURNALISM PROGRAM

Top professional journalists from across the state will join the Ole Miss Department of Journalism faculty in directing the first "Newspaper Staff Program for Young People" at the University of Mississippi June 10-15.

A select group of high school journalists (freshmen-juniors) will develop and refine skills in all phases of newspaper publication, using the latest technology.

In addition to meeting Mississippi's top journalists, participants will gain hands-on experience using the latest electronic equipment—the Video Display Terminal (VDT).

Selected work by each participant will be published in the University's Daily Mississippian under his/her own by-line.

Activities in the Ole Miss Union and the new Turner Health, Physical Education and Recreation Complex will be open to staffers, in addition to films, rap sessions and watermelon cuttings.

The $100 registration fee covers all instruction, materials and activities, plus supervised, air-conditioned dorm living, full-menu meals at the university cafeteria and accident insurance while on campus.

The Newspaper Staff program is being made possible in part through a grant from the Gannett Foundation. Those interested in participating should request letters of recommendation from school sponsors and principals.

Further information about the program is available by writing or calling the Division of Continuing Education, The University of Mississippi, University, MS 38677.

In the first years of American independence, July 4 was celebrated by erecting bunting-draped Liberty Poles in public squares. Similar to May Poles, they honored the Liberty Tree, a large elm in Boston's Hanover Square under which the Sons of Liberty held meetings until British troops cut it down after the Boston Tea Party.

Grateful for the birth in 1811 of a son and heir, Napoleon I of France presented his second wife, Marie Louise, with a silver tiara set with 950 diamonds weighing 700 carats and with 79 emeralds. The tiara, with turquoise replacing the emeralds, is now a part of the gem collection at the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C.
